The Power of Two

One day, a farmer had a big problem. A heavy tree had fallen in front of his house after a storm. He tried to move it alone, but it was too heavy. He pushed and pulled, but the tree did not move an inch.

As he sat down tired and worried, his neighbor came by and asked, "Do you need help?" The farmer hesitated at first but then agreed. They both started pushing the tree together. Slowly, the tree began to move. After a few minutes, they cleared the path completely.

The farmer smiled and said, "Thank you! I could not do this alone." His neighbor replied, "That's what friends are for. Two is better than one."

From that day, the farmer understood the power of teamwork. Working together can make hard tasks easier and faster. He promised himself never to be afraid of asking for help when needed.
