Read the following passage and then answer the questions below:

Last week, a car accident happened on a busy highway near Riyadh. It was raining heavily, and the road was slippery. A young driver was driving too fast and distracted by his phone. He did not notice the car in front of him slowing down and crashed into it. Both cars spun onto the side of the road. Fortunately, everyone in both cars was wearing a seat belt. Some passengers had minor cuts and bruises, but no one was seriously injured. The accident caused a long traffic jam. Many drivers had to wait until the police arrived. The police and paramedics came quickly. They helped the injured, cleared the road, and guided traffic safely. The drivers exchanged information calmly and promised to be more careful in the future. People shared the story on social media to warn others about the dangers of speeding and using a phone while driving. This accident teaches important lessons: always drive carefully, especially in bad weather, never use a phone while driving, and always wear a seat belt. Even small mistakes can cause serious problems on the road.
