Howe Dell Primary School

Howe Dell Primary School, in Hertfordshire, is one of the most eco-friendly schools in the world. The school uses time with school saving energy. It also uses energy from the school playground to keep the buildings warm in winter and cool in summer. The children there also clean the environment. They recycle their toys and help take care of the school animal farm. Many students also take part in the ECO-SQUAD, the school group that helps protect the environment. Students in this group learn how to be environmentally friendly at school and at home, too.
